Acoustic Guitarist Andy McKee

One of the world's finest acoustic soloists, Andy McKee, brings his extraordinary musicianship to the stage at Theatre Royal Winchester on 18 March.

Andy's music has captured both music fans and guitar aficionados with his attention to song structure and melodic content. His love of experimentation with altered tunings, partial capos, percussive hits and tapping has kept his listeners fascinated over the years. With his deft touch and multi-layered approach he manages to turn a simple stringed instrument into the illusion of a full band accompaniment.

Andy's massive online following has brought him worldwide recognition. He has held the number one slot for most-viewed YouTube video of all time, having gained over 75 million views. He now tours internationally, playing up to 200 performances a year.

His success is a testament to the changing nature of the music industry as well as people's desire to listen to new music forms. His live shows are proof of his fine musicianship and engaging personality - he brings wit and humour to the stage whilst delivering some of the finest crafted music for the steel string acoustic guitar.
